

From San Francisco:
Minneapolis March 22
For San Francisco:
Minneapolis March 22
From Vancouver:
Vancouver March 27
For Vancouver:
Seattle March 27

Evening Bulletin

3:30 EDITION

Advertisements Are The Currents Of Trade

Properly defined advertising is a method by which the merits of an article may be described in the largest number of people in the shortest time and at least expense.

ESTABLISHED 1882. No. 5195.

10 PAGES.—HONOLULU, TERRITORY OF HAWAII, TUESDAY, MARCH 26, 1912.—10 PAGES.

PRICE 5 CENTS.

SUGAR MEN DENIED ACQUITTAL; TRIAL GOES KUHIO ASKS FAIR PLAY CONVENTION

Hot Time Col. Rees In Mahuka To Inspect Jury Room

The first vote cast by the jury in the Mahuka site trial is just over showed that there was a great difference of opinion between the jurors. The highest ballot cast was for a total award of $15,000, and from this the figures ranged all the way down to $1,000. Such is the information as to the jury balloting on the noted case.

Gradually an adjustment was made, although there were some lively scenes while the discussion was going on, and the compromise handed out from one to the other did not show that a great deal of discrimination had been shown in picking the phrases. It is said that at one time two of the jurors had their coats off. Then followed a deadlock.

Ten of the jurors hung at $125,000, it was said, while two stuck out for $35,000. For a long time the two stuck to their guns and would not shift dollars. Then some of the others started to climb up to them and finally the figure reached $15,000.

Neither side would budge from this, however, and it seemed as though there was to be a deadlock for good. Suddenly the fact that the next day was Sunday was passed around, and there seemed more chance of a settlement being arrived at. Arguments were poured in thick and fast and at the last the two "highmers" were induced to agree to a figure of $15,000. The Experts' Evidence.

This being settled, more argument arose as to what portion should be given Castile & Coles. An interesting point came up in this connection as far as the evidence of the experts went. The jury as a body decided that the witnesses called as experts had failed to bring common sense to bear in connection with the matter of the cause and that they had boosted it too high and undid too much capital out of it.

(Continued on Page 4)

HOW RELIGIOUS MOVEMENT SAVED ONE MAN HERE

Occasionally during a big religious campaign, such as the Christian Extension movement, it is possible to realize how the movement attracts a man who has never before taken any interest in religion and who has been, for the most part, rather inclined to skepticism. The interview that follows is interesting for the reason that it was told in all simple truth and by a man who until a few days ago had not attended a religious service for years. The name is for obvious reasons withheld.

"I do not really know even at the present time," he said, "how it was that I became interested in the movement at all. I was passing the Eng-

(Continued on Page 3)

TO SUE STAR

WORN HERE, THERE AND EVERYWHERE—
Walk-Over Shoes
HONO LULU DEALERS:
JACOBSON BROS.,
HOTEL STREET
Pantheon Block

"SQUARE DEAL" KUHIO'S REQUEST OF THE VOTERS

Declaring his hope and belief that the voters of the Territory will see that he gets a square deal in the Territorial convention, Delegate Kuhn last night announced to large audiences at Ana Park that he would go to Washington to represent the Territory in opposition to the re-organization.

He declared amid cheers that though his whole political future depends on the outcome of the fight against Governor Frost, the welfare of the Territory stands first with him, and he will go to Washington, leaving the care of Hawaii and his true friends to protect him against "treacherous" efforts to drown the "Kuhio" factor.

The Delegate made a plain, straightforward talk both in his English and Hawaiian dialects. He spoke in the Kuhn-Pearce controversy with such energy to show how it has involved his whole future and those of his aligned faction against frost in the Republican party. He did not go into the details or merits of the controversy, leaving that to the voters. He appealed only for a square deal for himself and for the voters to study the situation, look it in the face, and make their decision on fair grounds.

Strong for Taft.

He again affirmed his judgment

Delegate A. Leslie Kuhn.

of Taft for reelection, and asked that he be sent as a delegate to the Sixty-third Congress.

(Continued on Page 9)

He again affirmed his judgment

of Taft for reelection, and asked that he be sent as a delegate to the Sixty-third Congress.

(Continued on Page 9)

He again affirmed his judgment

of Taft for reelection, and asked that he be sent as a delegate to the Sixty-third Congress.

(Continued on Page 9)

He again affirmed his judgment

of Taft for reelection, and asked that he be sent as a delegate to the Sixty-third Congress.

(Continued on Page 9)

He again affirmed his judgment

of Taft for reelection, and asked that he be sent as a delegate to the Sixty-third Congress.

(Continued on Page 9)

He again affirmed his judgment

of Taft for reelection, and asked that he be sent as a delegate to the Sixty-third Congress.

(Continued on Page 9)

He again affirmed his judgment

of Taft for reelection, and asked that he be sent as a delegate to the Sixty-third Congress.

(Continued on Page 9)

He again affirmed his judgment

of Taft for reelection, and asked that he be sent as a delegate to the Sixty-third Congress.

(Continued on Page 9)

He again affirmed his judgment

of Taft for reelection, and asked that he be sent as a delegate to the Sixty-third Congress.

(Continued on Page 9)

He again affirmed his judgment

of Taft for reelection, and asked that he be sent as a delegate to the Sixty-third Congress.

(Continued on Page 9)

He again affirmed his judgment

of Taft for reelection, and asked that he be sent as a delegate to the Sixty-third Congress.

(Continued on Page 9)

He again affirmed his judgment

of Taft for reelection, and asked that he be sent as a delegate to the Sixty-third Congress.

(Continued on Page 9)

He again affirmed his judgment

of Taft for reelection, and asked that he be sent as a delegate to the Sixty-third Congress.

(Continued on Page 9)

He again affirmed his judgment

of Taft for reelection, and asked that he be sent as a delegate to the Sixty-third Congress.

(Continued on Page 9)

He again affirmed his judgment

of Taft for reelection, and asked that he be sent as a delegate to the Sixty-third Congress.

(Continued on Page 9)

He again affirmed his judgment

of Taft for reelection, and asked that he be sent as a delegate to the Sixty-third Congress.

(Continued on Page 9)

He again affirmed his judgment

of Taft for reelection, and asked that he be sent as a delegate to the Sixty-third Congress.

(Continued on Page 9)

He again affirmed his judgment

of Taft for reelection, and asked that he be sent as a delegate to the Sixty-third Congress.

(Continued on Page 9)

He again affirmed his judgment

of Taft for reelection, and asked that he be sent as a delegate to the Sixty-third Congress.

(Continued on Page 9)

He again affirmed his judgment

of Taft for reelection, and asked that he be sent as a delegate to the Sixty-third Congress.

(Continued on Page 9)

He again affirmed his judgment

of Taft for reelection, and asked that he be sent as a delegate to the Sixty-third Congress.

(Continued on Page 9)

He again affirmed his judgment

of Taft for reelection, and asked that he be sent as a delegate to the Sixty-third Congress.

(Continued on Page 9)

He again affirmed his judgment

of Taft for reelection, and asked that he be sent as a delegate to the Sixty-third Congress.

(Continued on Page 9)

He again affirmed his judgment

of Taft for reelection, and asked that he be sent as a delegate to the Sixty-third Congress.

(Continued on Page 9)

He again affirmed his judgment

of Taft for reelection, and asked that he be sent as a delegate to the Sixty-third Congress.

(Continued on Page 9)

He again affirmed his judgment

of Taft for reelection, and asked that he be sent as a delegate to the Sixty-third Congress.

(Continued on Page 9)

He again affirmed his judgment

of Taft for reelection, and asked that he be sent as a delegate to the Sixty-third Congress.

(Continued on Page 9)

He again affirmed his judgment

of Taft for reelection, and asked that he be sent as a delegate to the Sixty-third Congress.

(Continued on Page 9)

He again affirmed his judgment

of Taft for reelection, and asked that he be sent as a delegate to the Sixty-third Congress.

(Continued on Page 9)

He again affirmed his judgment

of Taft for reelection, and asked that he be sent as a delegate to the Sixty-third Congress.

(Continued on Page 9)

He again affirmed his judgment

of Taft for reelection, and asked that he be sent as a delegate to the Sixty-third Congress.

(Continued on Page 9)

He again affirmed his judgment

of Taft for reelection, and asked that he be sent as a delegate to the Sixty-third Congress.

(Continued on Page 9)

He again affirmed his judgment

of Taft for reelection, and asked that he be sent as a delegate to the Sixty-third Congress.

(Continued on Page 9)

He again affirmed his judgment

of Taft for reelection, and asked that he be sent as a delegate to the Sixty-third Congress.

(Continued on Page 9)

He again affirmed his judgment

of Taft for reelection, and asked that he be sent as a delegate to the Sixty-third Congress.

(Continued on Page 9)

He again affirmed his judgment

of Taft for reelection, and asked that he be sent as a delegate to the Sixty-third Congress.

(Continued on Page 9)

He again affirmed his judgment

of Taft for reelection, and asked that he be sent as a delegate to the Sixty-third Congress.

(Continued on Page 9)

He again affirmed his judgment

of Taft for reelection, and asked that he be sent as a delegate to the Sixty-third Congress.

(Continued on Page 9)

He again affirmed his judgment

of Taft for reelection, and asked that he be sent as a delegate to the Sixty-third Congress.

(Continued on Page 9)

He again affirmed his judgment

of Taft for reelection, and asked that he be sent as a delegate to the Sixty-third Congress.

(Continued on Page 9)

He again affirmed his judgment

of Taft for reelection, and asked that he be sent as a delegate to the Sixty-third Congress.

(Continued on Page 9)

He again affirmed his judgment

of Taft for reelection, and asked that he be sent as a delegate to the Sixty-third Congress.

(Continued on Page 9)